

VIEWSHED #14

The viewpoint is from the outside lane of the Lincoln Memorial Circle, looking northwest.

Existing view includes a view across West Potomac Park toward the Potomac Naval Annex and the roof of the Kennedy Center. The eastbound Constitution Avenue approach is visible behind a row of shade trees near the center of the view. The future site of the US Institute of Peace is located to the far right side of the view, between the Constitution Avenue approach and the Potomac Naval Annex. In the foreground, the westbound approach to Memorial Bridge from Ohio Drive is seen intersecting with the sidewalk on the outside edge of Lincoln Memorial Circle.

Alternative 4

The Alternative 4 overlay shows the proposed south building (Education Center).

- Views of the Potomac Naval Annex, West Potomac Park, and the eastbound approach to Constitution Avenue are maintained.
- View of the Kennedy Center is blocked.

Minor negative impact: Due to the blocking of the view to the Kennedy Center. However, the existing view is only of the top of the Center and is not a defining element of the vista.

Alternative 4V

The Alternative 4V overlay shows the proposed south building (Education Center).

- Views of the Potomac Naval Annex, West Potomac Park, and the eastbound approach to Constitution Avenue are maintained.
- View of the Kennedy Center is partially blocked.

Minor negative impact: View of the Kennedy Center would be partially blocked, but the view is only of the top of the Center and is not a defining element of the vista.
